Arizona Expedition: Indian Land Tenure Foundation Graduate Course Offering at University of Arizona

During the spring of 2006, Dr. John Glover, while on sabbatical from BHSU, was invited as a Visiting Scholar to the University of Arizona's Graduate Schools in American Indian Studies. Dr. Joe Hiller offered a graduate course entitled Indian Country Land, Agriculture and Natural Resources cross-listing American Indian Studies and Watershed Management. This course provided Dr. John Glover and the ILTF an opportunity to pilot a graduate level course utilizing the ITLF curriculum.

Dr. Glover was on Visiting Scholar status at the University of Arizona in Tucson from January through March of 2006.
